FCP Executive Council Meets with County Intergovernmental Relations Committee

courtesy The Forest Republican

A first-of-its-kind meeting between the Potawatomi Executive Council and the Forest County Intergovernmental Relations Committee was held Oct. 9, at the Forest County Potawatomi (FCP) Executive Building. Both parties agreed that it was the first meeting of this kind and that going forward they should meet monthly. Vice Chairwoman Brenda Shopodock suggested that the meeting sites alternate between the two groups. The next will be at the courthouse.

The major topic of discussion was the opioid crisis that is destroying so many lives in the county. Chairman Ned Daniels explain the need to be proactive in the fight against drugs. He explained that Forest County is one of two counties that have a drug court. The court is designed to curb drug use through treatment, counseling and lifestyle changes instead of traditional punishment by incarceration. The tribal government has its own treatment center, the Health & Wellness Center, which is a public rehab located in Crandon. Health & Wellness Center specializes in the treatment of substance abuse and mental health. If a person in drug court agrees to extensive treatment and wants to change their lifestyle but can't get a job because of their criminal record, the tribe will place them in a job in the Potawatomi community where they will be evaluated and monitored.

Tribal Treasurer Joe Daniels said that part of the tribe's proactive approach is to track each member from the "cradle to putting flowers on their grave." He said they have an effective tracking system that the counties should consider, as it is documentation for funding from the state and federal government for their drug crisis programs.

County Chairman Tom Tallier said that the medical and emotional problems associated with opioid addiction are not only costly to families but a major expenditure for the county. The county is in partnership with Tri County Human Services. One of the counties pulled out, leaving just two counties in the program to share the cost for this service. Tallier explained that it costs the county for every medical call and hospital visit. Just one incident in the jail can add up to $12,000 per call and that is if the person is not in the hospital more than a day or two. Tallier said human services is now transporting people in need of in-house drug treatment to Iron Mountain. Daniels said that they are doing that, too, and they have a very good treatment center on the reservation that anyone can use. Tallier said they must decide if the county could go it solo with the Potawatomi providing services such as a treatment center for the county.

The Potawatomi community has helped the county recently by providing

two drug officers and two patrol cars. They have also purchased a patrol unit for the City of Crandon. They provide school funding to the school districts.

"We hope that all our communities can work together to make better lives for our children," said Daniels. He stressed the value of a grant writer for the county. "Sometimes you have to spend money to get the funding you need," he said. The Potawatomi community has a wing of grant writers and support staff.

At the next meeting, the group will address highway projects. FCP Executive Council and the Department of Transportation are co-hosting a meeting at the tribe's casino in Milwaukee. Chairman Daniels extended an invitation to the committee to join them. He explained this would be a good chance for the county to meet and talk to the DOT people and communicate their need for highway funding. Two county members said they would like to attend and learn more about how to apply for these grants.

The meeting ended with a group picture and a friendly handshake between Forest County Chairman Tom Tallier and FCP Chairman Ned Daniels.

Executive Council Planning Workshop Held

submitted by Kenzie Carlson and Michelle Berdan

Forest County Potawatomi (FCP) Executive Council held a planning workshop on Oct. 8, 2018, to document a 50-year vision of the FCP Community, as well as to create a 25-year building project timeline. This timeline will serve as a guide for tribal leaders to align government resources with the future vision of the community. Chairman Ned Daniels Jr., Vice Chairperson Brenda Shopodock, Secretary James Crawford, Treasurer Joseph Daniels Sr., Council Member Nickolas Shepard, Council Member Brooks Boyd, Tina Grant (Accounting) and Crystal Deschinny (Compliance) participated in this day-long workshop.

The workshop began by asking participants to describe their individual 50-year vision for the FCP Community. After individual reflection, participants shared their visions for the community and recognized they have the same set of ideals. They collectively envisioned a safe community with common principles: children, adults, and elders feel cared for and valued; the Potawatomi language and culture are integral to daily life; and a pristine environment exists. In essence, they envisioned the community as a place where members love living.

As tribal leadership described their vision for the FCP Community, they recognized that certain aspects of the community needed to remain the same while other areas required change. Leadership should remain child- and family-focused while creating an environment in which people recognize their social value and uniqueness. They also should continue to secure a financial means to support the community's needs while improving efforts to diversify economic resources.

Next, the group articulated a 25-year building project timeline beginning with the first five years. The participants dedicated the majority of the day to this portion of the planning workshop. As a result, the group focused on maximizing efficiency and effectiveness by combining or eliminating projects. They also added projects that were critical to achieving the 50-year vision and discussed the rationale behind the prioritization of projects. The group engaged in a similar process for prioritizing proposed projects between years 2024-33 and years 2034-43. Essentially, projects that lacked justified-need were prioritized later in the timeline for further due diligence and development.

Brandon Lee Synol

Brandon Lee Synol, age 41 of Cecil, passed away on Saturday, Oct. 6, 2018, in his home. Born on May 19, 1977, in Medford, Wis., he is the son of Sharon (Shawano) Synol and the late Richard Synol. On May 23, 2003, Brandon was united in marriage to Brenda Genz in Green Bay. Brandon always told it like it was. He loved anything to do with cars and fixing them, watching NASCAR and taking rides. He also loved his dogs and listening to music, but more than anything, he loved his family.

He is survived by his four children, Keyyanna (Kyle) Synol-Anderson, Alexander, Jade and Crystal Synol and four grandchildren, Avah, Kaiden, Aushra, Asher and another on the way. He is further survived by his mother, Sharon (Michael) Hurkmans and one sister, Audra (David) Synol-Kruger as well as his former wife, Brenda Synol.

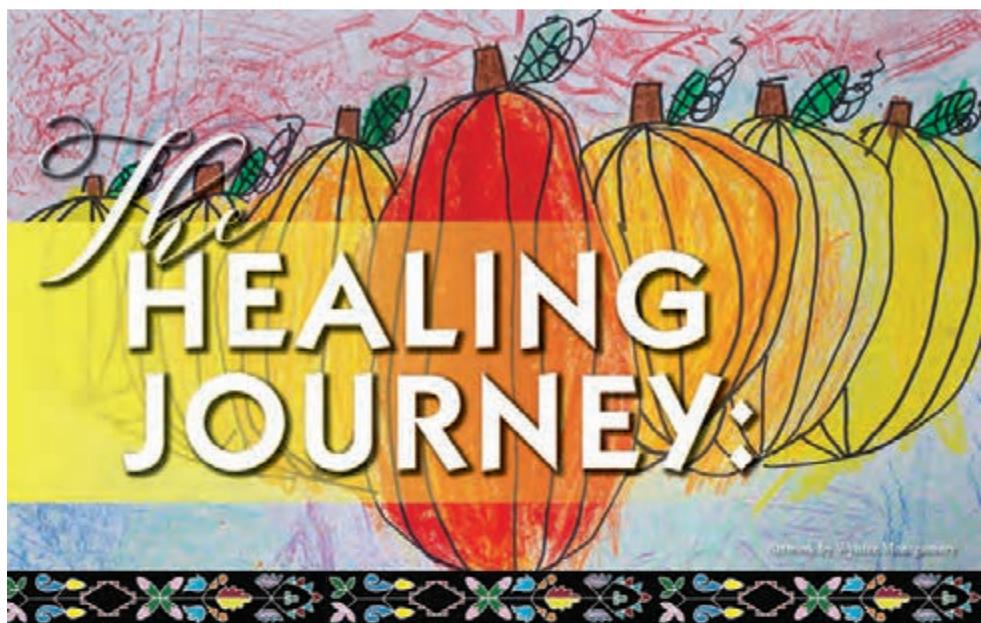

He was preceded in death by his father, Richard.

Visitation was held at Hemer Funeral Home in Rib Lake on October 12, 2018, followed by graveside services at Lake View Cemetery. Swedberg Funeral Home in Shawano assisted the family with the arrangements.

Message From FCP Veterans Post 1

WE HAVE MOVED! Meetings take place on the first Monday of the month at 5 p.m. in the lower level conference room at the FCP Museum. We consider it an honor and a privilege to be of service to the Potawatomi community. Membership in FCP Veterans Post 1 is open to all veterans and spouses of Potawatomi tribal members. Please join us!

Join us as individuals share stories of how substance abuse has impacted their lives, how they cope with the grief of losing a loved one, and how they stay on the path of sobriety.

Safe Medication Disposal Saves Lives!

submitted by Jordyn Fink, Health Educator

Did you know? Everyone has a role in supporting the health of youth and young adults. One community action item that YOU can help with is to make opioids less available. Participate in the community drug take-back events and drop off unused medications in the collection boxes. Everyone can help prevent the abuse of opioid drugs. Forest County now has two medication collection boxes.

Did you know? "Fact: Non-medical use of opioids in Native American youth occurs two to three times more than with other ethnic groups." Wisconsin Dose of Reality Campaign

Never Flush or Drain: Unused or expired prescription medications should NEVER be flushed or poured down the drain or septic system. These substances can pollute the water supply if not disposed of properly.

Reminder: The Forest County Sheriff's Department has a 24-hour permanent drug drop-off box where community members can bring their unwanted/unused medications.

The Forest County Potawatomi Health & Wellness Center has a permanent drug drop-off box located near the pharmacy counter. You can bring any expired medications that you no longer need anytime during normal business hours: Monday - Friday, 7 a.m. - 6 p.m. Ask a pharmacist or pharmacy technician about how to properly dispose of any medications.

What can I bring to the drug drop-off boxes?

BRING:

- Prescriptions (controlled and non-controlled)
- Over-the-counter medications
- Ointments, patches, non-aerosol sprays, or inhalers
- Creams, vials, and pet medications

DO NOT BRING:

- Illegal drugs, needles/sharps, or aerosol cans
- Bio-hazardous materials (anything with bodily liquid or blood)
- Mercury thermometers or personal care products (shampoo, soaps, lotions, sunscreen, etc.)
- Household hazardous waste (paint, pesticides, oil, gas, etc.)

Family Services Division

submitted by Abbey Lukowski, Family Service Division Administrator

Boosho! Family Services Division (FSD) offers many supportive services to tribal members and community members. FSD staff give service in a number of capacities – some of those services are more visible than others. However, one component is for certain: whether it's busily assisting a client during a confidential appointment or hosting a community event, FSD is here to support and serve you.

FSD sincerely appreciates the opportunity to serve you – whether we're celebrating history and culture, planning future projects or assisting with a crisis situation, staff are available Monday through Thursday, 7 a.m. – 5 p.m. For additional information, please reach out to our main line at (715) 478-4433. For emergency situations, staff are available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days per year. For those outside of the normal business week services, emergency, child-related needs may be addressed by calling (715) 889-1446. For all other emergency client needs, please contact our Community Advocacy line at (715) 478-7201. As a gentle reminder, if you receive the voicemail, please leave a clear and detailed message with the best phone number to return your call. Migweth!

Flora Tracey currently serves in the position of Child Care Teacher for the Forest County Potawatomi (FCP) Family Service Division's (FSD) Rising Sun Day Care. She has served the community over 10 months and is responsible for caring for children at the tribal day care center and assisting with various activities and projects.

In her spare time, she enjoys hunting and hiking. Flora enjoys serving the FCP Community.

Rebecca Shelhammer currently serves in the position of Child Care Teacher for the FCP FSD Rising Sun Day Care. She has served the community about a year-and-a-half. She is responsible for teaching, loving, and caring for children at the tribal day care center and assisting with various activities and projects.

In her spare time, she enjoys riding horses, walking and gardening. Rebecca enjoys serving the FCP Community by caring for the future of children.

Leigha Gonzalez (formerly Mackin) currently serves in the position of Tribal Child Support Supervisor for the FCP FSD Child Support Department. She has served the community for over five years and is responsible for ensuring all tribal and federal laws and regulations are complied with, and assuring the day-to-day operation and administration of the IV-D program. The supervisor is responsible for the preparation and submission of the budget, submission of federal and tribal reporting and maintaining and updating IV-D policies, procedures and plans, preparation of legal documents, representation of FCPC-TCSA in Tribal Court and ensure compliance with all contracts.

In her spare time, she enjoys spending time with her husband and her family, reading, kayaking and baking and cooking. Leigha enjoys serving the FCP Community by offering child support enforcement actions, modification of child support orders, location services, paternity actions and helping with any and all questions one may have about tribal child support.

Second Viewing of Dodging Bullets

by Val Niehaus

A special screening of the film Dodging Bullets was put on by Forest County Potawatomi (FCP) Community Advocacy on Oct. 16, 2018, at the FCP Executive Building auditorium. This presentation was open to the FCP community and the general public.

The night started out with a dinner featuring meat supplied by the Bodwéwadmí Ktëgan with all the fixings to go along with it. Tom Boelter, division administrator of education, offered a blessing for the food along with the night's viewing. Jasmine Anderson, native resilience social worker, welcomed the crowd of around 30 people and gave a brief description of what this documentary is about before the movie began.

Dodging Bullets is a film that explains in-depth what historical trauma is and how so many indigenous people are now living with the effects of it in their present day lives. The majority of the population do not even know what historical trauma is, let alone understand the effects of it. But this film really opens your eyes as to what it is, how and why it occurred, and the effects on Indigenous people living today. The film interviews Native Americans who are survivors of historical trauma and shows how they are moving forward in their lives and are bringing awareness to the rest of the populace about what it actually is, what it is like to live with it, and the far-reaching effects on the Native population.

FCP tribal member and elder Marie Gilligan was able to speak after the film about her life story and shared through personal stories of her childhood years how she feels historical trauma has affected her life. She talked about the importance of communication with each other in an effort to deal with the effects of this issue on individual lives and emphasized that it is critical to tell people you love them, telling those in attendance that a big hug never seems to hurt anyone.

Jeryl Perenich, FCP tribal member and elder, also spoke about her time in foster care and shared that she was raised by a Baptist preacher who allowed her and her sibling to have contact with their father while they lived with his family. This was a different scenario than was experienced by most Native American foster children back during that time period.

Peggy Konaha, FCP tribal member and elder, also gave a brief history of how it was growing up around here and how she never knew much about her Native American heritage because of the stigma associated with it back then.

People from the non-tribal community also chimed in and had nothing but positive feedback as well. Many did not realize that so many bad things had happened to Indigenous people of this land in the past, and they felt that this educational tool was a huge plus in helping to understand why things are the way they are in this day and age.

Potawatomi Traveling Times did a story about this film in more detail in the Sept. 15, 2018, issue if you would like to see a more in-depth coverage of this film. You can also visit the website dodgingbullets.org to obtain a lot more information about the film and this subject as well as to appreciate the increased awareness about historical trauma that is being brought forth through this powerful documentary.

There will be a mandatory viewing of this film for FCP employees on Nov. 20, 2018, with three separate showings being held at 8 a.m., 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Meals and snacks will be provided. For more information, please contact Jasmine Anderson at (715) 478-4433.

FCP tribal member Marie Gilligan shares part of her story.

2nd Annual Swine, Dine & Dash Event Held

submitted by Jenni Mabrier, Environmental Education Manager (LNR)

It is the changing of the seasons once again. For many, it means a time to harvest, feast, and prepare for winter. On Saturday, Oct. 13, over 100 people came out to enjoy fall with a meal and activities at the Bodwéwadmí Ktëgan.

New this year, the hay maze and knocker balls were a hit and will definitely be back next year! The always popular face painting and pumpkin patch had a steady stream of visitors. Community Advocacy, Community Service, Education, and ICW all had tables with activities. People lined up to help run the cider press, and everyone enjoyed the delicious cider.

In the morning, Community Health put on another great Fun Run. Forty-one people ran or walked the route around the farm. Along the way, they got to see the orchard, bee houses, cows, and the early stages of construction on the new main building set to open next summer. Fire Nation, along with some of the Young Warriors, drummed before the meal. Executive Council Member Nick Shepard gave the blessing before everyone dug in to all the delicious food offered.

Thanks to Community Health, Utilities, Recreation, Roads, Maintenance, and Construction departments for helping us prepare for and host the event.

Helpline Receives its 1,000th call from Across Indian Country

submitted by Mallory Black, StrongHearts Native Helpline

AUSTIN, Texas (October 5, 2018) – In time for Domestic Violence Awareness Month, the StrongHearts Native Helpline (1-844-7NATIVE) announced 1,000 callers have now reached out to the helpline for safe, confidential support and resources for domestic violence and dating violence, shining a light on the deep-rooted issues of violence plaguing Tribal communities across the United States.

Since March 2017, the StrongHearts Native Helpline has offered a culturally-appropriate space for victims, survivors, their families and friends, service providers and abusive partners to reach out for help. As a partnered effort, StrongHearts combines the technology and infrastructure of the National Domestic Violence Hotline with the National Indigenous Women’s Resource Center’s policy and programmatic expertise and community connections.

“This is a key milestone in our work to support those facing intimate partner violence, though we recognize these calls are only beginning to scratch the surface of violence in Tribal communities,” said StrongHearts Assistant Director Lori Jump (Sault Ste. Marie Tribe of Chippewa Indians). “Every call speaks to the bravery of our people in breaking the silence of violence in our homes, families and communities. For those reaching out to StrongHearts, we hear you, and we are here for you, no matter what.”

Steeped in Native cultures and traditions, advocates navigate each caller’s abuse situation with safety, compassion and respect. Created by and for Native American communities, StrongHearts is uniquely designed to serve a population facing some of the highest rates of domestic violence in the United States. Tribes, even as sovereign nations, face significant jurisdictional hurdles when addressing domestic violence in their communities. Gaps in culturally-based supportive services create unique barriers for Native victims seeking help.

According to StrongHearts’ data from its first 19 months of operations, the severity of victims’ experiences is telling: more than 7 out of 10 victim-survivor callers reported experiencing more than one type of abuse (71 percent), including physical abuse, emotional abuse, sexual abuse, financial abuse, digital abuse, cultural abuse, and other complex situations. Nearly half of callers experiencing violence reported a child being involved in their situation (46 percent). The top service referral requested by victim-survivors were shelters and legal advocacy.

“Because more than four in five Native Americans experience violence in their lifetime, there is a clear need for a national, confidential and tailored resource like StrongHearts to support Native victims,” said Jump. “However, we cannot do this work without the help of our relatives; every call to the helpline speaks to the need for more resources for tribally-run services for victims in Indian Country and Alaska Native communities.”

In 2016, the National Institute of Justice released a study indicating more than one in three American Indian and Alaska Native women and men had experienced violence within the past year. Of those who had experienced violence, a third of Native women and one in six Native men were unable to access the supportive services they needed.

“Our advocates take calls from victims, survivors, family members and friends, service providers, youth and elders—anyone who is impacted by violence and needs help,” said Jump. “Domestic violence affects everyone in our communities and each generation. We encourage anyone who needs to talk to reach out to us. Every story matters.”

About StrongHearts Native Helpline
Created by and built to serve tribal communities across the United States, the StrongHearts Native Helpline, a project of the National Indigenous Women’s Resource Center, the National Domestic Violence Hotline, and the Family Violence Prevention and Services Program, is a culturally-appropriate, anonymous, confidential and no-cost service dedicated to serving Native American survivors of domestic violence and dating violence, along with their concerned family members and friends. By dialing 1-844-7NATIVE (1-844-762-8483) Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. CST, callers can connect at no cost, one-on-one with knowledgeable StrongHearts advocates who can provide lifesaving tools and immediate support to enable survivors to find safety and live lives free of abuse. After-hours callers may connect with the National Domestic Violence Hotline or call back the next business day. Learn more about StrongHearts at www.strongheartshelpline.org.

Data Holdings: RETHINKING DATA CENTERS IN THE AGE OF DATA

Stacy England, VP of Operations

Organizations are rethinking data management to keep pace with the ever-changing needs of the business world. Data centers have evolved from being a remote, secure facility with space, power, and network to being a collaborative extension of a customer's business. Heavy dependence on the way organizations store, maintain, and access their information and applications puts businesses in a tight spot to determine the best infrastructure option — should they move applications to the cloud, retain the core applications within a co-location facility, or pursue a hybrid model? The obvious need is for a perfect data center partner that allows a business to operate more efficiently and reduce costs while increasing resilience and agility. Data Holdings meets these needs with its $33 million data center facility, designed to provide tenants a cost-effective, flexible, secure, and highly reliable IT facility for primary data center and secondary disaster recovery data center needs.

Data Holdings' VP of Operations Stacy England explains, "All the magic occurs within the cabinets, which allow our clients to focus on their core business and relieve themselves of mechanical, electrical and HVAC headaches." Located in Milwaukee in a seismic zero-zone upper-Midwest, Data Holdings custom-designs co-location, private cloud, and application hosting solutions in a purpose-built facility that meets or exceeds standards for most industries. It offers an adaptable LEED Gold designed 50,000 sq. foot environment and guarantees 100 percent facility uptime by virtue of its Tier IV power and electrical distribution. In addition, "Data Holdings stands as the only purpose-built data center in any Native American Sovereign Nation and is served by a robust collection of national and regional fiber carriers," adds England.

Data Holdings' team possesses unique Fortune 500 business application experience to objectively assess client requirements. It helps plan logical migrations of applications to a hybrid mix of co-location services, and a public/private cloud strategy, while employing aggressive pricing enabled by a low cost of power.

It also offers creative custom measures, such as flexible real-time disaster recovery options. Its Disaster Recovery as a Service (DRaaS) offers offsite backup and recovery with data replication and high-availability solutions to seamlessly restore clients' data without impacting the business. Data Holdings maintains the highest level of audited regulatory compliance (HIPAA, PCI, SSAE 16 SOC 2 Type II), which allows clients in the healthcare, manufacturing, finance, and insurance industries to design innovative solutions for storing their mission-critical data.

The experience and adaptability of the Data Holdings team allows for creativity and nimbleness in a business not renowned for those qualities. England recalls the time a local enterprise struggled with consistent power-failure issues. Power failures resulted in a direct loss for the business, so the team moved the client's data and servers into its data center and got their services back online within 24 hours. What started out as a disastrous problem for the customer ended as a memorable success, and the Data Holdings team enjoys a great relationship with a happy client who gets to sleep soundly at night!

Scripting similar success stories and supporting nearly 150 businesses out of its Wisconsin facility, Data Holdings collaborates with most of the large cloud players in the market along with OEMs for hardware and software acquisition. The company expects a 60 percent growth trajectory and plans to double its footprint over the next five years.

FCP Foundation: SKECHERS SHOE GIVEAWAY

Skechers manufactures a particular shoe for donation to children in-need. The black, uni-molded clog with a heel strap "called BOBS" shoe," comes in sizes 2T through kids 9. Skechers donated thousands of the clogs to the New Threads of Hope, a non-profit organization and a grantee of the Forest County Potawatomi Foundation. Skechers Shoes, in partnership with Rogen Shoes, Forest County Potawatomi Foundation, NewThreads of Hope and Delivering Good, sponsored the shoe distribution that took place on Wednesday, Oct. 10 on the Wgema Campus to bring new shoes to children of the Greater Milwaukee Community. Children had an opportunity to visit a decoration station where they personalized their shoes with colorful markers. Nearly 1,000 pairs of shoes were distributed at the event.

Planning Workshop

Once the timeline was established, the group discussed the purpose and impact of each project, as well as overall project alignment. This was accomplished by determining whether the project primarily strengthened and supported the community's infrastructure, social well-being, education, health, economics, environment, or culture.

In order to support the long-term vision, the group prioritized infrastructure development over the next five years. This emphasis on developing critical transportation, utilities and technological systems will allow and support future growth. However, the five-year timeline also includes projects from each of the areas of impact in order to develop all aspects of a healthy, balanced community.

By the end of the planning workshop, the group had created a collective vision, as well as a framework to guide future due diligence. Executive Council expects Division Administrators, with the support of the Capital Projects Team, to develop a detailed project plan. These plans will include projected construction and operational costs, maintenance schedules, and a program implementation strategy. Further, all plans should include evidence that programming is in alignment with the strategic vision and provides measurable benefits to the community.
