Bosho (Hello)

Each year we tell stories about our lives, share the history of our tribe, and look to the past to help chart a bold path into the future. By reflecting on our experiences and focusing on our bright future, our tribal community can make sure we all succeed. Each page of this guide highlights how we are able to accomplish that goal. Inside you will discover some of the different ways our community is working towards ensuring that each and every one of us thrives.

Published twice a year, mno Gizhget ngom offers a unique perspective on the mission, values, and goals of the Forest County Potawatomi Community. Whether you're just passing through our corner of the state or you're a lifelong member of our community, we hope this guide is an exciting and helpful way to learn more about the Forest County Potawatomi.

The 12 women making up the 12 Native Nations of Wisconsin for the event

by Val Niehaus, Potawatomi Traveling Times

In November 2019 (Native American Heritage Month), the Forest County Potawatomi (FCP) Executive Building auditorium was the site of a very special performance called Ancestral Women in Wisconsin: The Performance Art Project.

This presentation is inspired by the stunning fiber art pieces of Mary Burns. She is an award-winning weaver/artist from Mercer, Wis., and her works and the Ancestral Women Exhibit is currently on tour around the United States. This collection of tapestries won best of show in Wisconsin's Festival of the Arts in both 2008 and 2012.

Several years ago, Potawatomi Traveling Times (PTT) had the opportunity to see these weavings in person and was able to sit down and talk with Burns about the inspiration behind these fantastic, intricate pieces of art that highlight Native women. One piece in particular was especially unique to the FCP as it was Mary "Waseyan" Waubiness, mother of FCP tribal elder Arlene Alloway. This article appeared in the Dec. 1, 2016, issue of PTT.

The Ancestral Women performance honors women elders from each of the 12 Wisconsin Native American tribes - 11 of which are federally-recognized. The twelfth one - the Brothertown Nation - is still fighting for federal status. Present on the stage were 12 women - one from each of these tribes - and all are honored to talk about the individual woman from their own tribe that has been admired by having her likeness woven into one of these works of art. For some, it was their grandmother or great-grandmother they were talking about, though one woman's own mother was the subject of one of these beautiful tapestries. She felt especially fortunate to have such a close connection and to be able to share with the audience.

They shared special memories, funny stories, and accomplishments of these women, and then discussed their contributions to their tribes - in particular, the lessons they taught people. As would be expected, the presentations were a bit emotional at times as the connections between the presenters and the artistic subjects were obviously very distinctive. It was apparent to everyone in the audience the degree to which these elder women impacted the presenters and affected how they live today. It was truly a very moving performance all around and impacted those in the audience.

One particularly special moment was when FCP tribal member Donna VanZile was honored to be able to talk about her grandmother, Mary "Waseyan" Waubiness - the previously mentioned subject of one of the tapestries. VanZile discussed all of the knowledge that she had learned from her grandmother and her teachings of culture, life and love. It was very touching and powerful to hear VanZile talk about a woman who meant so much er Band of Lake Superior Chippewa: Cecilia LaBarge, Red Cliff Band of Lake Superior Chippewa: Katherine Morrisseau, St. Croix Chippewa of Wisconsin: Sarah Hindsley, and Ho-Chunk Nation: Barbara Blackdeer-McKenzie.

There was also a brief performance by Bobby Bullet and Pam Nesbitt with a short song involving audience members and the women from the performance.

FCP Vice Chairwoman Brenda Shopodock stood in applause and said, "I am very grateful...I was able to meet you all. It was amazing to hear about these women who paved the way for so many, and I was honored to be able to smudge with you before the performance. All around it was a great presentation!"

FCP Council Member Nick Shepard also stood in recognition and said, "Ktthe Migwetth to you all in telling these stories to us. I myself am very honored to hear them and grateful for this time...listening to you all."

Cultural Preservation Division Executive Assistant Skye Alloway commented, "Ktthe Migwetth to all of those who have contributed to this beautiful, educational and healing performance art project. It was truly an honor for our community to host the Ancestral Women!" Also,

"Ktthe Migwetth to Michelle Gobert, Crandon school board president, for joining us in the celebration and honoring of Ancestral Women."

Ktthe Migwetth to Fire Nation for singing and sending everyone off with good feelings at the end, to Judge Eugene "Fugie" White-Fish for the prayer to start off the performance and to Guadalupe Cisneros and Debbie Tuckwab for the delicious food.

to her and her family, and whose teachings had such an influence on their ways of life. It was all the more powerful knowing that this woman was a member of the FCP tribe and lived on these lands.

Other women who participated were: Sokaogon Chippewa of Mole Lake: Vickie Ackley, Lac du Flambeau Band of Lake Superior Chippewa: Mildred "Tinker" Schuman, Menominee of Wisconsin: Marla Mahkime-tas, Oneida of Wisconsin: Tekelahuntya Claudia Skendore, Brothertown Indian Nation: Jessica Ryan, Stockbridge-Munsee Band of Mohicans: Lai Lonnie Kosowski, Lac Courte Oreilles Band of Lake Superior Chippewa: Nicole Larsen, Bad Riv-

TREES RECEIVE Potawatomi Names

by Winda Collins, Potawatomi Traveling Times in collaboration with
Michelle Berdan, FCP Planning

FCP Elder Hazel George and FCP Forestry Manager Kevin Makuck

On Monday, Oct. 28, PTT had the pleasure of getting out of the warm office and into the chilly outdoors for a bit at the request of FCP tribal elder Hazel George. The reason for the request was simple, but the whole idea leading up to that request could have a positive and culturally-significant impact.

Back on June 27 of this year, Hazel approached the FCP Planning department with an idea that would increase awareness of the language and culture in the community. Her hope was to create dual language signs to identify the different tree species along Potawatomi Trail. The idea is that when children travel to and from Gte Ga Nēs, they will see the signs and the language and learn from them. Hazel not only wanted the children to see the language, she wanted the parents, siblings, community members, employees and visitors to learn from the signs as well.

The created signs are as follows:

- big tooth aspen: za di
- ironwood: mya nos
- white ash: kap sêk
- hemlock: ga ga gwesh
- yellow birch: win sa tēk
- bitternut (hickory): mte gwa bak
- basswood: wi gbē mesh
- sugar maple: she na mesh
- elm: enip
- dead elm tree: enip
- black ash: wis gak
- quaking aspen: za di
- white birch: wi gwa sa tēk
- tamarack: man be mesh

The project involved committee members, staff, and various departments:

- Tribal Elder: Jim Thunder
- Language and Culture: Robert Van-Zile and Donald Keeble
- Land Use Committee: Herbert Daniels Jr., Melissa Gorham, Jessica Jacobson, Shaunnebene Daniels, Frank Shepard Jr.
- Forestry: Forestry Manager Kevin Makuck, Forester Richard Congdon, Fire-Fuels/Community Forest Manager Jimmy Gumm, Corvin Emery
- Planning: Planner Michelle Berdan
- Tribal Historic Preservation Office: Michael LaRonge

The following recalls the timeline of the dual language-sign process:

- Staff from the Tribal Historic Preservation Office, Forestry, GIS and Planning walked along Potawatomi Trail with tribal elder Hazel George to identify, mark and locate the different tree species and locations for the signage.
- Natural Resources and Tribal Historic Preservation Office were contacted to ensure there were no environmental or cultural concerns with the installation of the signs.
- Met with the Land Use Committee to request and obtain approval for the placement of the signs along Potawatomi Trail.
- Requested approval from Executive Council.
- Requested assistance from Jim Thunder, Donald Keeble and the Language & Culture Department in order to collect the Potawatomi names.

- Went out to GPS the locations, mark the trees, and measure the distance from the right-of way.
- Contacted Digger's Hotline to put in a planning locate to identify the location of existing utilities.
- Reviewed appropriate size of the lettering based upon the speed, distance and time of travel.
- Hazel made the final selection for the signage background and font colors.
- Ordered and received the signs, brackets, and posts from Rent-a-Flash.
- Placed a Digger's Hotline request to locate utilities.
- Scheduled the installation of the signs.
- Cleaned up brush and branches and installed the signs.

That last bullet point was the reason for PTT's excursion to the chilly outdoors: to document the momentous occasion of an idea brought to life when people work together. But this foray out into the cold was worth it! Hazel was so pleased with the process and the final result. Her enthusiasm was contagious and she was truly enjoying the morning: laughing, poking fun, and telling stories – not to mention helping clean brush from the spots where the signs would be posted.

Many thanks to all who had a hand in making a difference in the community!

Native American CHILDREN'S BOOKS for Purchase

by Val Niehaus, Potawatomi Traveling Times

Forest County Potawatomi Tribal Member Lee White has just finished his latest children's books titled Gno-Wes: Little Eagle, Shagok: Where He Got His Stripes and Wabozo. White resides on the Forest County Potawatomi Reservation and attended college at Mt. Scenario, Concordia University-Mequon and UW-Milwaukee where he majored in psychology and education.

Following his advanced education, White went on to start an internship at the Indian Community School (ICS) in Franklin, Wis. He then went on to teach at ICS for the next 8 years. After his life took a bit of a turn, he returned to the FCP reservation in Crandon, Wis., where he spent another 8 years in a teaching position as well as other community education programs for the tribe.

After being back in the area, he attended conferences to further his education in which he noticed that there were hardly any Native American children's books written by actual Native American authors. This sparked his personal passion to write such books himself. In addition to the three stories just finished, White also had a book called Mko Lost His Tail which was a story retold by White years back. All are unique and very well done.

The illustrations along with the story lines of these three new books are amazing! The pictures alone tell the story and any child would be happy to look at these books just for the illustrations. As they learn to read, the text of the stories follows the illustrations nicely. White said these books are here to teach lessons to children...lessons in respect as well as lessons about the importance of being humble and grateful for what they have. They are great stories for young pupils to read and to learn and thereby carry on these teachings. It should also be mentioned the Potawatomi language is used in certain areas throughout these books, too.

You can purchase these books at the FCP Cultural Center, Library & Museum, and at Tricia's Treasures and the Pioneer Express in Crandon, Wis. They are $10 each or three for $25. They are a great collection for anyone to have in their library at home and it makes them extra special to know that they are written by a local tribal member.

3D MAMMOGRAPHY™

exam

— NOW AVAILABLE —

at FCP Health & Wellness Center

by Julie Burt RT(R)(M)(BS), ARRT FWSRT, Imaging Director/Radiologic Technologist

At the Forest County Potawatomi Health & Wellness Center (FCPHWC) Imaging Department, we are proud to offer the Selenia® Dimensions® 3D Mammography™ exam with the SmartCurve™ Breast Stabilization System. This new exam provides better and earlier breast cancer detection, and is more comfortable for our patients.

Mammograms are a woman's best defense in detecting breast cancer earlier, but the fear of pain can cause some women to delay scheduling their annual mammogram.

The FCPHWC Imaging Department is now able to provide our patients:

- More accurate exam versus conventional 2D mammography alone by detecting 20-65 percent more invasive breast cancers.
- A greater piece of mind by reducing the chance of unnecessary callbacks by up to 40 percent compared to conventional 2D mammography alone.

One of the first patients to try the new exam.

- Greater accuracy exam than conventional 2D mammography for women with a variety of breast density, as nearly 50 percent of women between the ages of 40 and 74 have dense breast tissue. This is the only mammogram that is FDA approved as superior for women with dense breasts.
- Improved comfort by using the SmartCurve™ system. The SmartCurve™ system offers curved compression paddles, which mirror the shape of a woman's breast. This reduces pinching and provides more uniform compressions over the entire breast, for added comfort. The SmartCurve™ system has shown an increase in comfort for 93 percent of patients who had previously reported moderate to severe discomfort during an exam using the conventional 2D mammography paddles.

Women will see very little change in positioning between the conventional 2D mammogram and the 3D mammogram™. In addition, the new exam takes about the same amount of time to complete, about 3.7 seconds of scan time per position. The real difference is in the information provided to the radiologist (doctor that interprets your mammogram results). While the standard 2D mammogram exam only provides four basic images, a 3D™ exam offers multiple images (much like looking through pages of a book.)

The FCPHWC is committed to the fight against breast cancer. If you would like to schedule a Selenia® Dimensions® 3D Mammography™ exam or if you have questions about this important breast health procedure, please contact the FCPHWC at (715) 478-4300. Take pride in your preventative breast health decisions!

FCP JUNIOR'S BOXING CLUB & Fitness Center

Mark Daniels Sr. and son Mark Daniels Jr., aka Junior

by Val Niehaus, Potawatomi Traveling Times

After having started a boxing club in the basement of his own home in the year 2000, Mark Daniels Sr. has made the decision to “hand over the gloves” to his son, Mark Daniels Jr., aka Junior. It is his hope that by doing so, he will be passing on the legacy that has been developed over the years through his family and their love of the sport of boxing and physical fitness in general. The boxing club had really started to take off in 2002, and as with many new programs, it has had its ups and downs since then. Despite facing challenges over the years, Junior wants this club to become a permanent fixture in the community and is intent on working to make that happen.

The club’s new name is FCP Junior’s Boxing & Fitness Center and it will be located at the old high school in Crandon, which is now known as the NRC. The formal address is 100 N. Prospect Ave., but it should be noted that the club’s facilities will be using the entrance on Madison Avenue across the street from Cardinal Park - NOT the main entrance to the building itself.

This will not only be a boxing club for ages 11 and up, but it will be a fitness center for anyone in the community who wants to come work out during these winter months – that time of the year that keeps us indoors more and contributes to storing up those extra pounds. This site will be open to the public and not just to tribal membership. So, if you are a young, middle-aged, or an “older” individual looking for a place to come walk on a treadmill or lift some weights, this is your place to go. Monthly membership is $20 for non-tribal and $30 if they’re training to compete.

The gym will be open Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., with Saturday having some optional openings planned for the future. Junior says he will be the one present at the gym most of the time, but if he has to run an errand or has an appointment, he will leave a note with his cell phone number for attendees to be able to reach him anytime if necessary.

Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays will be dedicated to training in boxing and as previously stated, this is a program for ages 11 and up. Those interested in pursuing this activity can come in and train under the eye and talents of Junior who is quite experienced and skilled in the sport.

Tuesdays and Thursdays will be geared more towards strengthening and conditioning/circuit course/lifting activities – these also being an important part of the boxing sport. General strengthening as well as attention to cardio conditioning are both important in developing the well-rounded boxer. As Junior and his father have both said, if any youth are really interested in pursuing this sport, their experience and abilities will enable them to help interested young people do things the right way under the eye of an experienced trainer. Both Daniels Jr. and Sr. are known in the boxing circuit and will be able to help interested students get involved in competitions.

Junior also said, “I want to have a progress report as well for the youth and parents to see. If you are succeeding each week you will be rewarded, and if you are not taking the training seriously, other consequences will happen. You have to show an interest in this sport or in staying physically active while being here. It is not a place to come to be goofing off. There is a lot of equipment here that you could injure yourself on if you are not paying attention.” With that also being said, anyone who decides to come and use the facilities will have to sign a waiver to do so, which is a standard practice in such a facility.

Junior did emphasize that if you are not interested in the sport of boxing, that is perfectly okay. You can come in and use their extensive and well-maintained equipment which is all located in the same area as the boxing ring. Among other things, they have treadmills, stationary bikes, rowing machines, kettle bells, Olympic weights and box jumps available for those interested in physical fitness.

Juniors wife, Lindsay, is also looking forward to starting her own class in circuit course training. If there are potential clients who are female and would feel more comfortable with a female trainer, this is your opportunity to see what she has to offer. And of course, Junior's father, Mark Sr. will still be in and out of the gym, though he will be doing things a little more low key as he passes on the gloves.

Even though there will be focused training in boxing, Junior did make the point that in time he is hopeful that he will be able to help people with their physical fitness programs and nutrition. He is extremely passionate about health and well-being and is very interested in efforts to keep our bodies running at peak performance through healthy choices with respect to exercise and nutrition. He and his wife both follow a vegan diet and they are both physically fit in many ways. They can and want to help others be the best they can be by helping them learn about and develop healthy lifestyles.

Best wishes to Junior in pursuing what he loves doing as he develops a facility that will both offer youth an opportunity to learn a great sport as well as help others improve their health. He loves the sport of boxing along with pushing his body and mind to be the best it can be and will be a great resource and role model for those interested in improving their overall health and fitness.

If you have any other questions or need more details about things related to this enterprise, Junior can be reached at (715) 889-0710, and his wife, Lindsey, at (715) 889-0282.
